

Graduate Internship Available in Archives and Special Collections at LIU Post for Fall, 2016

We are looking for one Library School Graduate Intern to work in our Archives and Special Collections Department during the FALL, 2016 semester. The intern will have the opportunity to work with priceless original resource materials.

Under supervision, this graduate internship will involve working with one of our rare book or archival collections. We are looking for students who are motivated and have a desire to learn the different phases of archival and rare book work in an academic Archives and Special Collections. The internship will include experience with digitizing some rare materials.

The internship is directed to the graduate student who is pursuing a concentration in rare books or is working towards his/her archival certificate, though we will consider applicants who are interested in developing an understanding of Archives and Special Collections. We host interns from various Graduate Library School Programs in the metropolitan area. Please call Jarron Jewell at 516/299-3407.
